According to Rob Wyse, spokesperson for FreeScore.com, “FreeScore.com exists to help people manage their financial lives — from credit reports and three kinds of scores, to debt consolidation and loans. In this volatile financial climate, all three credit scores can fluctuate, just like the stock market. Mistakes can be made in people’s credit history. This is a free service of FreeScore.com to ensure that consumers have all the information to protect and manage their financial lives.”
